

Putting Baby Safely to Sleep:

Tools for nurses, family physicians, obstetricians and pediatricians

This guidance provides useful ideas and resources for sharing important messages with new and expectant parents about putting baby safely to sleep.

Your role

Engage new and expectant parents, provide them with information, direct them to resources that educate them about safe infant sleep environments and practices, and empower them to cope with infant sleep-related challenges.

The opportunities

- Ask parents about infant sleep challenges during medical appointments and hospital stays, and whether they have questions about the National Institutes of Health's recommended infant sleep guidelines. Do you have a patient who has just returned from deployment? Discuss the risks associated with fatigue while caring for an infant.
- Share safe sleep information with your patients. Use American Academy of Pediatrics safe sleep information, First Candle's downloadable brochure, "Room Sharing is Safer Than Bed Sharing,"* and articles on safe sleep practices on Military OneSource.
- Encounter parents that might need extra support? Encourage them to contact their local New Parent Support Program by searching "New Parent Support Program" on MilitaryINSTALLATIONS.
- Share our archived blogs. Tell them about the archived blog series, "Sleep Like a Baby: The Keys to Infant Slumber," designed especially for military parents.
- Participate in free American Academy of Pediatrics online training about creating safe sleep environments.

Key messages for new and expectant parents:

- Sleep is often one of the most significant challenges for new parents.
- One of the most important decisions a new parent makes is where and how they place a baby to sleep.
- Ensuring your baby is in a safe sleep environment involves closely monitoring your own personal level of alertness while caring for your infant.
- Safe sleep can save lives.
