

Interactive resources are just a click away.

Military Kids Connect offers information for educators:

<http://www.militarykidsconnect.org>

- Learn about military culture.
- Get connected to educator resources.
- Access age-appropriate material for military students.

Connect with others in a safe environment.

Providing policy, tools and resources for service members and their families.

Kids Deploy Too!
MilitaryKidsConnect.org

Helping kids, youth and teens cope with the challenges of military life.

Military Youth on the Move and Military Kids Connect provide resources for children on a variety of topics. They allow children to seek out information and help on their own in an easy to use, interactive way. So whether a family is about to relocate or a parent is in the deployment cycle, children can find helpful advice through MYOM and MKC.

Both sites are divided into three sections, Kids (ages 6 to 8), Preteens (ages 9 to 12) and Teens (ages 13 to 17), with specific content for each group.

Just for parents

In addition to the youth and teen-oriented content of MKC and MYOM, each site offers sections for parents. Here you can find great information on how to assist children, youth or teens through the processes of relocation and deployment, as well as tips for everyday parenting.

Military Youth on the Move is focused on dealing with age-specific issues related to relocation, transitioning to a new school, military life and much more. The site was developed with kids in mind, drawing upon input from military children of all ages. Throughout the site, youth and teens can find helpful advice from kids their age, as well as tips on things like:

- Managing money
- Online safety
- Making new friends
- Volunteering
- Bullying

<http://apps.militaryonesource.mil/myom>

Military Kids Connect

is an online community supporting military kids whose parents are in a deployment cycle. The interactive website was developed by psychologists at the Department of Defense's National Center for Telehealth and Technology to help kids cope with the stress and changing responsibilities that come with having a deployed parent. The site offers age-appropriate tools such as:

- Secure message boards
- Articles that address age-specific concerns
- Engaging games and activities
- Personal story videos

<http://www.militarykidsconnect.org>

Through MYOM:

- Access helpful advice to support children through difficult relocations and deployments, and find out how to protect children from online predators and bullies.
- Get helpful tips to take the stress out of moving.
- Find links to additional resources designed for military parents.
- Watch helpful videos designed with kids in mind.
- Listen to podcasts on a variety of military youth and parenting topics.

Through MKC:

- Find age-specific guides for dealing with the different phases of deployment.
- Get connected to parental resources and links to programs for children of deployed parents.
- Allow access to age-appropriate material for children, youth or teens.