

Fall/Winter Baby Book Making Special Delivery

As troops have gradually been returning from Operations Iraqi and Enduring Freedom over the last few years, many military installations across the world have undergone a modern day baby boom. For example, according to a recent New York Times article, the medical center at Ft. Bragg in Fayetteville, N.C., is delivering nearly 300 babies per month and baby clothes and furniture at local stores are becoming harder and harder to come by.

To better meet the needs of these new military parents, the Exchange Service has unveiled the 2008 Fall/Winter Baby Book. Featuring strollers, car seats, swings, clothes, bedding, furniture and much more, the 52-page catalog has the latest contemporary baby items for today's moms and tots, tailored to every budget.

“Whether shopping for clothing for a new bundle of joy or nursery items for a toddler, the Fall/Winter Baby Book has all of the necessities for military moms and dads,” said Chief Marketing Officer Mat Dromey. “With page after page of high-quality merchandise, this catalog is sure to be an economical time saver for busy military parents.”

The 2008 Fall/Winter Baby Book is available at all main stores and online at aafes.com, usmc-mccs.org, navy-nex.com or cg-exchange.com.
