Support for your group

Military OneSource state consultants explain the benefits, services and resources available to the military community through Military OneSource. Support can be provided in person or through webinars. Anyone who serves the military community can request a visit from a state consultant, including:

- Military leaders from every branch
- Military service providers
- Civilian and community organizations that serve military populations

Military OneSource state consultants have a vast range of experience within the military community. The team represents all branches and components and is made up of:

- Currently serving and retired enlisted and officers from numerous career paths including recruiting and retention, personnel, public affairs, training officers, aviation, intelligence and many more
- Family members and military-connected service providers with years of experience in family readiness and support roles providing care and critical support to the military community

Our consultants have deployed and managed the home front, experienced multiple moves, and been put into the role of single parents and geographical bachelors. They have enjoyed the comradery of the military family and experienced the loss of those family members. They are part of the military community and are committed to those they serve—and they would love to speak with you!
