MILITARY ONESOURCE

Meet the Military OneSource Field Consultants

Military OneSource field consultants can help you support service members and families by sharing information about the benefits and resources available through Military OneSource.

How They Support You

Consultant services

- Providing presentations, webinars and resource tables for your events
- Offering information and referrals to help service members and families navigate military life
- Partnering with military and community leaders to address local needs

What They Can Cover

Community needs

Field consultants tailor their outreach to community needs and offer information on these and other topics: personal finance – education – employment – health and wellness – caregiving – relationships – recreation and travel – deployment – PCSing – services for military spouses and kids.

Who Can Request Support

Eligible groups

- Military leaders
- Military service providers
- Civilian and community organizations that support military populations

Experience You Can Rely On

About the team

- Current and former service members and military-connected professionals bring deep experience across a wide range of career fields and family readiness topics.
- Many have deployed, managed moves and home front demands and supported families through challenges.
- They're part of the military community and committed to serving those who serve.

Request free support from your local Military OneSource field consultant by calling 800-342-9647 or email FieldConsultants@militaryonesource.com.

U.S. Department of War